EDITOR IN DISTRESS

I can't wait for Saturday, July 11. UFC 100 will finally be here. The whole card is awesome. I'm hoping for quick knockouts so that all twelve fights will be shown. Unless you're not a MMA/UFC fan, than you know the main event is a huge rematch with Champion Brock Lesner versus Interim Champion Frank Mir for the heavy-weight title. The last time these two met was at Brock's first UFC fight which he lost by leg submission. Well, Brock Lesner isn't a rookie now and has now defeated Heath Herring and Randy Couture. There is lots of bad blood here and should be super exciting. I predict Brock Lesner revenging his first loss. Before that fight, Welterweight Champ George St. Pierre will take on heavy hitter Thiago Alves and for the first time in quite a while, GSP will not have the size advantage. I believe GSP will come out victorious none the less and stay champ for a little longer. Another fight with bad blood will be between Dan Henderson and Michael Bisping, past coaches on The Ultimate Fighter. I never really cared for Bisping, so I'm hoping he gets his ass whooped. Some other killer fights you might get to see are on Jon Fitch vs. Paulo Thiago, Yoshihiro Akiyama vs. Alan Belcher, Stephan Bonnar vs. Mark Coleman, Mac Danzig vs. Jim Miller, and Jon Jones vs. Jake O'Brien.

If you can't wait to Friday for you MMA fix than head out to Plano Friday, July 10 for SWC 8: Night of Rumbles at the Plano Centre, 2000 East Spring Creek Parkway, Plano, TX. No info on the website about ticket prices or fighters. Supreme Warrior Championship was started by Marcus Hicks, who fights for WEC, to showcase local fighters. www.sw-cmma.com

After a long and much needed hiatus, my band Blood Ov..., is finally playing again. We just jumped on a last minute show with Relapse Records' Minsk who hail from Chicago. Last time I saw them they played a pretty epic set on a trailer outside a record store in Austin, so I'm pretty thrilled to play on the same stage as them. If you're a fan of the new Mastodon album, then you should come check out Minsk. The show is at The Lounge this Wednesday, July 8. $12 for over 21 and $15 for under 21. 2810 Elm St. (Deep Ellum), Dallas.

If you're not a UFC fan but like snotty, melodic punk rock than be sure to check out my friend Rebel Elle's new band, The Loosies, at The Lonestar Country Club Saturday, July 11. It's their very first show and I'm bummed I'll miss it, but they're be playing the Bone the next week. I've only heard the unmastered songs they recently recorded, but from what I heard it's a mixture of riot grl punk, 50's garage rock and 90's grunge. Can't wait to see them live. 1849 E. All the fuss about Club Dada shutting its doors for good after the TABC's visit last week is just that-- fuss. And rumor. Also speculation. There has been a shake up in the staff, and some previously booked shows have been moved to other venues by the former booking agent, but this Wednesday, Dada will be back in bizness with Salim Nourallah, Paul Slavens and Owen Orbel. Thursday has Double Ugly and Jungle Jim; Friday has Barefoot in Texas, Dragna and The Juju Beans; Saturday during the day will be a Battle of the Bands (don't forget your weapons!) and on Tuesday night, Real Street Blues TV has a special show with Lucky Peterson. So, take that, TABC! KNON 89.3FM Community Radio will present Bobby Blue Bland with special guests Gregg Smith with Big Jack & the Conspiracy Band this Friday, July 10 at Poor Davids Pub, 1313 South Lamar in Dallas. Doors open at 7:30 pm with the opening act at 8:30 pm. Bobby Bland plays

The Wall St. Journal Gets An Oscar

The Lodge's Own Oscar Martinez Graces The Prestigious National Newspaper

Yes, that was our own Oscar Martinez, food and catering manager extraordinaire, on the front page of The Wall Street Journal's Marketplace section in June. To illustrate a story about the recession's effect on the gentlemen's club industry, the newspaper dispatched a photographer to The Lodge to show Oscar serving up a fabulous, ridiculously-low-priced lunch special.

The same article highlighted "The Lodge Stimulus Package" - lower drink prices and extended Happy Hours to help our customers cope in the current economic climate.

The Wall Street Journal has a daily U.S. circulation of over 2 million, with millions more readers online here and around the world.

Here's the Journal's photo of Oscar in action:

You, too, can, have a fabulous lunch served by our famous Oscar and the rest of our award-winning staff. Amazing $5 lunch specials are in effect till 4 p.m. daily, and the best food in town is proudly served up all night.

Catch them live with Responsible Johnny and Giggie Party at the Lonestar Country Club located at 1849 E Belt Line Rd, Coppell, TX. www.myspace.com/theloosies

Minsk - Live Wednesday, July 8 At The Lounge

Relapse Records artist Minsk returns to offer With Echoes in the Movement of Stone, the eagerly-awaited follow-up to The Ritual Fires of Abandonment. Produced by Sanford Parker and the band, With Echoes... burns slow through twisted, psychedelic post-rock with equal parts bombast and deliberation. Songs unfold like the cosmos before collapsing inward under the crushing weight of Minsk's signature wall-of-sound. In the end Minsk succeeds where other bands fail by marrying the range of human emotions with a vast sonic tapestry to create a provocative, stirring and supremely heavy album experience. Locals Hawk Vs. Dove, Four Days To Burn, Blood Ov... and They Only Come Out At Night open. First band at 9pm. 2810 Elm St. Dallas www.myspace.com/minsk

When I was in the fourth grade, our class was chosen to be in a muscular dystrophy commercial in which Jerry Lewis dressed in his Emmet Kelly sad clown costume, walks around a child run carnival only to be ignored by aforementioned children. Well, lucky us.

At the announcement to the class, the room went bezerk as if they were giving each kid an individual golden ticket to WonkaLand. All except for the little boy named Mike in the second row, second desk who sat in silent horror as papers were tossed into the air and little fists pumped the air in anticipation of joys only slightly lesser than Christmas or the first day of summer. I thought this was one field trip from which I would never return and I worried who else might not survive as well. Could Jerry Lewis eat a whole fourth grade class?

Filming was to take place right after Easter break. Back then, it was called EASTER break and even the Jewish kids looked forward to it. So we had a little time. Time that is, to deck out Mrs. Erickson's 4th grade room from floor to ceiling with clowny décor. It was a friggin' nightmare in technicolor my grades took a nose dive and is the prime reason why to this day, I suck in math.

During the same time, I was going to catechism learning all about saints, sins (cardinal & venial) church law & the salvation of Jesus Christ. I learned about the importance of earnest prayer & how Jesus prayed so hard that he cried blood. Immediately after Easter service, the first of the two times a year when most Catholics went to church (-the other day being Christmas) I ran directly to my room (a.k.a. the terror-dome) and commenced to praying.

I had a pastel clown portrait in my bedroom as a child that also scared the heck out of me and kneeling directly under the evil clown portrait, fueled by bravery that only the noonday sun and religious fervor of mass still ringing in my ears I squinted my eyes and clasped my hands so tightly, my knuckles turned white. I prayed hard but I did not cry blood.

Coulrophobia

My legs fell asleep and I saw stars from pressing my knuckles into my eyelids. But night still came and the clown still mocked me from across the bed.

After Easter break, on the day we were to leave Mrs. Erickson returned from the conference room with a dour looking school administrator and the mom who apparently got the whole ball rolling on the Jerry Lewis Clown-tastrophe. Red eyed, she informed the class that due to some bureaucratic, insurance and actors guild issues that there would be no commercial or trip. There were disappointed sighs and groans from throughout the room while the adults looked at each other with concern wondering just how these kids would ever recover. All except for the little boy in the second row, second desk who was giggling uncontrollably. Giggling because he knew from being a catholic that bureaucracy could be a good thing and God used it to save Mrs.. Erickson's 4th grade class from being eaten alive by Jerry Lewis.

Today I'm a marginally better although I will do everything possible to avoid a clown at the mall, birthday party or business grand opening. My good friend and Masonic brother Tom is a clown for the Shriners and I use every opportunity to tell him that he's doing more harm than good but he's a rodeo clown and maintains that they're different. They aren't as scary but if he gets gored on duty kids are gonna be going to therapy for years.

This brings us to our final breakdown and field guide for wayward clown spot- ters and casual dabblers as well.

French Clowns- They have B.O., smoke a lot and hate America. Luckily, when confronted they usually surrender.

The Jester- These are the guys who got the ball rolling and ruined childhoods for generations to come. If they were no good or the king was in a bad mood the jester was executed. Those were what we like to refer to as the good 'ol days.

Silent Clowns- Very scary and known for their voracious appetites can eat an entire nine year old in one sitting. Clarabell was their leader.

Shriner Clowns- Yes they help crippled children but if the children could run away they would.

Circus Clowns- Traveling felons in grease paint who will take any opportunity to feel you and your kids up and you won't know it until after virginity and wallet are gone.

Amateur /Birth-day Clowns- Known for their exorbitant hourly fees and spotty magical skills these clowns are the stealthiest. Smiling and making balloon animals one moment and snarling and promising certain death in a harsh whisper the second mom & dad turn their backs. Avoid at all costs. Rent a pony or bounce house instead.

Hobo Clowns- The only thing worse than a sad clown is one who pan handles.

Sad Clowns- Why are they so sad? Because they Haven't eaten in weeks! You're next Timmy!

Rodeo Clowns- When was the last time you took your kid out to see honest to goodness blood sport? One slip up and these greasy bastards are gored and trampled to oblivion right in front of your little princess' eyes. Then you've killed her love of ponies and her childhood in one fell swoop.

Ronald McDon-ald- He's ubiquitous, annoying, makes you fat and is a contributing factor to the clogged arteries of the billions and billions served. The Joseph Mengele of the clown set.

Mimes- Bastard cousins of clowns- not particularly scary but annoying to the Nth degree. They are not the least bit entertaining and if you get close enough they will mock you in public. I remember after the awful Colombine massacre, one of the victims' friends performed as a mime AT THEIR DAMN FUNERAL! All I could think was after the horror of what happened those poor people had to suffer through a damn mime pretending she was in a box while standing next to her dead friend in a real box. Sacrilege. It should be legal to hunt mimes if found out in the open.

METRO ANE SPORTS

So how was your big 4th of July weekend?

Did you duly pay tribute and honor to our country's Independence Day? I did.

I went barkin' with some bad dogs and chased the stray cats on out the neighborhood. Had me more than a handful of ceegars. Had me just the right kind of Texas BBQ. And I had my boots propped up on a rail, just the right amount of ice cold beers, and some of the prettiest ladies in the State to pop my eyes right out their sockets.

Watched me a good baseball game and had hot dogs, roasted peanuts, and cold brew. Watched a great Indy Race, and a couple of drag races (cars not cross dressers). I had me a piece of deep dish cherry pie that was so good the Mormon Tabernacle Choir was singing with each bite I took.

And bein's it was my b-day, I took my Road Star cruiser out on a lonesome stretch of highway, cranked 'er on up to 'bout 90 or so, spittin' bug guts, then parked out on a ridge and surveyed this great land of ours. I've done my tours of duty overseas and I know what our young servicemen and women are facing today. Regardless of anything else going on, we still live in the greatest country on earth. Now let's get to the foot stompin' and chase the dogs out the house.

The Dallas Cowboys. I don't care what day of the year it is or what time it is, hell, it could be 3 in the morning at a Denny's and you're gonna find someone who'll talk about the 'Boys. Here 'tis the off season and somewhere's along the line of ten or twelve gazillion people wanna know how the Cowboys are gonna do next season. And the burning question of the day is: who's on the hot seat?

by Pat "Two Dogs" Snow

C'mon, just about all of 'em are on the hot seat. You got a few yonkers that are up and coming, but the ones who've been here a few years, they're big time on the hot seat. If you don't know who they are by now, my 'splainin' it to you for the umpteenth time ain't a gonna cure that. Instead, let's yak on the owner.

Depending on what standards you wanna apply, I think Jerry Jones is a great owner.

Why? He's not afraid to put himself out there. He wants to win. He's not afraid to take risks. He'll stand there and face the critics. He'll bring in controversial players and he'll cut players. He's loyal to his players, probably to a fault because it sometimes blinds him. He knows how to play poker and he knows how to roll the dice.

Do I agree with everything he does? Hardly. But then, I don't know of anybody who I agree with all the time, do you? He will get petty and vindictive and that's not cool. He tries to control the media, not cool. But his feuds with Dale Hanson are great stuff.

Do I like the move to Arlington? Not a bit. I also think the City of Dallas should have leveraged him with the name, like, if he moved the team to any place other than Dallas, he'd lose the right to use the name Dallas. That wudda crimped his shorts.

But Jerry Jones is bringing a Super Bowl to Dallas and that's one of the coolest things we'll ever get around here.

How are other things shaping up in the NFL? Well, I think the Redskins were stupid to pay defensive tackle Albert Haynesworth all that dust to come over from the Titans.

Think about it, in all the time that Redskin's operating owner Snyder has run the team and dished out all that moola, what's the return been? Roger that. Nowhere near the investment anywhere along the line. Haynesworth has never played a full season yet, has had conditioning issues most of the time, and while he has played at a very high level, he's not done it consistently.

The Redskin's are trying to make everyone believe the power has now shifted in the NFC east, but that ain't so because their offense isn't anywhere near ready. In fact, think of a back country road with a car racing down it and it hits a skunk. What you got left? That's right, a big stink! And that's what the Redskins are, a dead skunk in the middle of the road, stinkin' to high heaven.

The NFL's marketing arm needs to understand there's a whale of a difference between being politically correct and insulting the fans intelligence. What's that?

Well, c'mon, I mean who in their right minds thinks the Bengals are actually a football team? If this so called team actually was going to create a 8-8 season do you think TJ would've jumped to the Seahawks? Carson Palmer ain't been the QB he was before his knee was taken out, and I don't care what name Chad changes his name to, the only major thing he is is a distraction, 'cause he sure ain't no major player. So the NFL channel can stop giving the Bengals props 'cause nobody else is on that train.

Do the Dolphins really need to improve over last season? Well, not in the regular season, no, but they're gonna need some help for the post season. I think the Ravens took too large a hit this off season and Flacco won't be able to take 'em far. The Falcons might be the most stable of the three overachievers of last season.

I don't know exactly what the Jet's are gonna do but you can bet your gym shorts that they'll be fun to watch.

If I rated the conferences, for the AFC I'd go East, South, North, then West. For the NFC I'd go East, South, West, and then North. I still believe the NFC is the stronger, but the AFC may have more excitement to them.

If you're not following the Tour de France maybe you should at least take a gander. I know, I know, I'm famous for not writing about the pedal pushers, but to Hell with the French, I think the Lance Armstrong story is one of courage and heart and deserves to be told around the world.

I don't think it will matter a whit if he doesn't win, it matters more for all the people on this planet who've suffered with cancer, directly or indirectly, that he does what he does.

There have been throughout history a single individual who can lift not just a team or event but an entire sport and we're watching a couple of 'em now. Tiger Woods revitalized golf and raised it higher and Armstrong is doing it for cycling.

The French may be famous for some food, but they're more than famous, and I mean infamous, for being petty, small minded, and snide, and they're excessively derisive treatment toward Armstrong for several years is an insult to him and the USA.

Although to be big about this, I shall compliment them where I can find it. After much searching I've found what seems to be the Frenchies most acclaimed attribute: and that is if we ever need any professional advice on how to retreat properly, we can always call on them.

sure stirred up the hornet's nest. From guys, and yes some gals, who don't think women should be out there at all, to guys wanting the women to have their own league, to no problemo.

Myself, I don't got no problem with it. You put on a helmet, lace up the boots, strap yourself in and punch it, then all the other factors are even. You got a problem with a gal winning over a guy, then maybe you should try harder, drive better, or get outta the damn way.

It appears the story line on Danica Patrick driving IRL really steamed up those NASCAR folks that do the rah rah for the oval set.

Seems they believe that Lady Danica is about to jump from the IRL over to NASCAR and they don't believe she cares about the racing, only the increase in name fame she'll grab. When asked, she replies that those things aren't up to her, but to her marketing company.

So what? The gal can race, she's hot, she's determined, she's hot, she'll bump cars with those stock cars any time they wanna play push and shove. Did I mention she's hot?

What's the up and coming on off road MX racing? The 2009 Lucas Motor Oil Women's National Motocross Series, and it's being shown on VERSUS.

The first question anybody's gonna have is: is it any good? You bet'cha. It's top dollar stuff. The current leader is Ashley Fiolek who's tearing up the points standings like she tears up the tracks.

She's in position to be the Danica Patrick of Women's MotoCross. She rides a 250 cc Honda for the Honda Red Bull Racing Team. She's smart and she knows how to not just learn a track before race time, she knows how to read it and run it while it changes during races. She's also profoundly deaf, so where other riders are getting signals from their pit crews normally, Ashley either doesn't get them or has to spot finger sign language in a glimpse while being tossed around on the bike. You try it.

The events run first, then VS airs them a week to two later. Next up: 6/13/09 at High Point Raceway in Mt. Morris, PA, airing 7/29/09. Look up the Lucas Oil's Women's MX for the full schedule and lots of info.

Readers Response:

Two Dogs:

This weekend I was playing golf and noticed the foursome in front of us was two couples and the women were shooting from the white tees with the guys. Aren't the women supposed to use the red tees? Isn't that a course violation? They weren't holding us up, but the women couldn't drive as far as the guys but their short game looked ok. If the marshal had come around, wouldn't he have made the women shoot from the front?

Ted

Eulless

Ted:

The front, or RED tees, are not designed for women they're designed for players of limited experience or ability. It's also a different way to play the round, and can give you more experience for a variety of shots. Sunshine golf course over in Grand Prairie is a nine holer, and you play one round from the whites, or back, and another round from the front, or red. It also sits right next to the Yellow Belly Drag strip, and on weekends you got races and beer drinkin', and whoopin' it up. Makes for a great day.

TD

Two Dogs:

I've heard you're this grilling tailgating specialist, so here's a question for you, which desert is the weirdest but best that you've had? Which is the weirdest and worst?

Carrie

Ft. Worth

Carrie:

Actually that's two questions, and the only grilled desert I've ever had is peaches, although some folk swear my burgers are a desert! Just in general, the answer to both is pies. The weird best was this tomato pie that had both red and green tomatoes in it. That was east of here in Jacksonville, Tx. The weird worst was overseas in England, and it was a liver pie. Yeah, that's a meat, well, organ, but they served it as a desert. They were all overjoyed with it, and I wanted to barf. The strangest was the plate load of fish eyes I was served in Viet Nam. Yeah, I ate 'em, but frankly I was pretty well lit at the time. Many things out there aren't as bad as they sound. I've had goats brains mixed with scrambled eggs, a southwestern delicacy for eons. If you go somewhere new and you're a tad on the squeamish side, ask them to not tell you what's in a dish and then serve it to you. You'd be surprised at how often you'll like it.

TD

Two Dogs:

I don't get why everybody's raggin' on receiver Williams. He was a standout at Texas, and at Detroit he was stuck with a miserable coaching staff and a horrible playbook. He'll look bad here, too, if they can't get a receiver opposite him.

Wally

Red Oak

Wally:

Williams didn't do himself any favors by showing up here, in season, out of shape, and then started bad mouthing the playbook and the practice sessions. Now, he might have come out of it better, but his production while he was here was minimal, and he wasn't running the routes. Romo never got to trust him because of that. Had Williams contributed would the end of last season been better? Who knows, but the odds say yes. Because of that the fans don't trust him, and are bitter toward Jones for giving up all those draft choices to Detroit.

TD

Two Dogs:

What's the one big factor for the Cowboys to succeed next year? What was the biggest failure last year?

Chandrelle

Dallas

Chandrelle:

The offensive line has to stay healthy and perform far better. You got a wheel barrel full of failures to choose from, but my opinion, the defense, especially in December. Pitiful.

TD

Two Dogs:

Doesn't Danica Patrick owe the IRL her career? She seems to be getting a large case of the big nose over her name and she's only won one race.

Stephanie

Dallas

Stephanie:

I don't know what Danica owes the IRL, but the IRL SURE owes Danica. She's one of those person's whose presence has elevated a sport to a higher level with the public. Helio has helped since his winning Dancing with the Stars, but you can bet your best dancing boots that if Danica were to be on DWTS, they'd probably have their highest ratings ever.

TD

Two Dogs:

Did a Judge put that driver back onto the tracks? Wasn't he like, stoned all the time, and isn't that dangerous? Can't he kill someone if he's not, like, got his head straight?

Praul

Eulless

Praul:

Hey, you're talkin', like, of Jeremy Mayfield who's an owner/driver in NASCAR. Yes, a Federal Judge, like, felt there was substantial room for a false positive on his drug test. A false positive is something that gives you one reading on the surface but the underlying information could be wrong for some reason. For example, years ago with earlier drug tests people were failing from positive results, but it was found out that some of these results were because of the person eating sesame seeds, like on hamburger buns that caused the "positive" result. It's also, like, possible to have a false negative. Mayfield could've done the last race at Daytona but didn't show, and as of this writing hadn't registered for the upcoming race in Chicago. NASCAR has filed a motion for the ruling Judge to reverse his decision, and laid notice it plans to file a federal appeals case.

Ultimate Sidecar: Man Attaches Full-Sized Car To His Motorcycle

There are motorcycle sidecars, and then there are motorcycle sidecars. This particular mash-up is dubbed the "Snaefell" and is the work of Francois Knorreck. It took him a whopping 10 years and over $20,000 to complete. The motorcycle is a Laverda, and the car itself is actually cannibalized from several different vehicles.

Did I Ever Tell You The One About... And other strange oddities of the world

Airline Crew Bares All To Get Flyers' Attention

Air New Zealand has hit on a novel way to make sure even the most jaded flyers keep their eyes glued on its flight safety briefing.

The national carrier's safety video for domestic services on its Boeing Co 737 planes show pilot and cabin crew dressed only in body paint.

But the safety message is kept seemly by carefully chosen camera angles. A copy of the briefing has been posted on the popular Internet site, YouTube. <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7-Mq9HAE62Y>

The safety video follows the same tactic as the airline's recent marketing campaign for its low-priced fares, which featured staff, including chief executive Rob Fyfe, adorned in only body paint.

Flight Diverted After Passenger Undresses In Seat

A passenger stripped naked during a US Airways flight and resisted a flight attendant's efforts to cover him with a blanket before two off-duty law enforcement officers on board subdued and handcuffed him, authorities said Wednesday.

Keith Wright, 50, of the Bronx in New York, was taken into custody after he disrobed while sitting in his seat in the back of Flight 705 on Tuesday evening, authorities said.

Wright was unresponsive when a flight attendant asked him to put his clothes back on, said Dan Jiron, a spokesman for the Albuquerque airport. "She asked him on more than one occasion to put on his clothes. She covered him with a blanket and he took that off," Jiron said.

Wright punched and kicked the flight attendant, who asked two off-duty law officers for help, according to a criminal complaint. A Los Angeles police officer and sheriff's deputy helped the flight attendant subdue and handcuff Wright before the flight landed, Jiron said.

Wright told the FBI he is suffering from a bipolar disorder and had not taken his prescribed medication before leaving New York that morning, the criminal complaint said. Wright told the FBI he recalled nothing about the flight or his behavior, it said.

Wright had been seen dancing in a crowded boarding area before the flight, but when approached by Flight Service Supervisor Claudia Kearney, he told her he had drunk one beer. Kearney told the FBI she did not smell alcohol on him and determined he was well enough to travel, the complaint said.

Mexico Cocaine 'Hidden In Sharks'

The Mexican Navy says it has seized more than a tonne of cocaine hidden inside the carcasses of frozen sharks. Armed officers found slabs of cocaine inside more than 20 sharks aboard a freight ship in the Gulf coast port of Progreso in Yucatan state.

Correspondents say cartels are coming up with increasingly creative ways of smuggling drugs into the US. Shipments of cocaine have also been discovered hidden inside sealed beer cans, religious statues and furniture.

"We are talking about more than a tonne of cocaine that was inside the ship," said Mexican Navy Commander Eduardo Villa. He said X-ray machines and sniffer dogs had helped to uncover the haul.

"Those in charge of the shipment said it was a conserving agent but after checks we confirmed it was cocaine," he said.

Cops In Michigan Protect — And Serve Doughnuts

"Cops & Doughnuts" is more than a punchline. It's now a bakery in Michigan — owned by nine full-time employees of the Clare Police Department.

The newly renamed bakery opened Wednesday, offering doughnuts, cookies, muffins, brownies and bread. It also has mugs and T-shirts bearing the "Cops & Doughnuts, 100 Percent Cop-Owned" logo, and phrases including "You Have the Right to Remain Glazed" and "Handcuffs and Cream Puffs."

Officer Al White says the officers were concerned when the Clare City Bakery's owners decided to throw in the towel. The 113-year-old bakery would have become the sixth empty storefront in Clare's three-block downtown.

The officers were on hand for the grand reopening but have hired a manager and will employ local students as staff.

Game Show Looks To Convert Atheists

What happens when you put a Muslim imam, a Christian priest, a rabbi and a Buddhist monk in a room with 10 atheists?

Turkish television station Kanal T hopes the answer is a ratings success as it prepares to launch a game-show where spiritual guides from the four faiths will seek to convert a group of non-believers.

The prize for converts will be a pilgrimage to a holy site of their chosen religion -- Mecca for Muslims, the Vatican for Christians, Jerusalem for Jews and Tibet for Buddhists.

But religious authorities in Muslim but secular Turkey are not amused by the twist on the popular reality game show format and the Religious Affairs Directorate is refusing to provide an imam for the show.

The makers of "Penitents Compete" are unrepentant and reject claims that the show, scheduled to begin broadcasting in September, will cheapen religion.

The project focuses attention on the issue of religious identity in European Union-candidate Turkey, where rights groups have raised concerns over freedom of religion for non-Muslim minorities.

Some 200 people have so far applied to take part in the show and the 10 contestants will be chosen next month.

A team of theologians will ensure that the atheists are truly non-believers and are not just seeking fame or a free holiday.

The SelfCharge Auto Jumper Eliminates Jumper Cables

Everyone has had that moment that they turn the key and you don't hear that satisfying noise that lets you know the car is up and running. Then you start to realize that you left your headlights on and your battery is completely dead. In those cases you have to grab the jumper cables and find someone to jump start your car. That means standing outside and hooking up the cables too, which is never fun in the dead of winter. Well now you can jump start your car all by yourself with a very small and easy to store gadget.

The SelfCharge Auto Jumper hooks up inside of your car through your car's cigarette lighter. After it's hooked up it'll take it less than ten minutes to get your car up and running. The device itself is rechargeable and can be recharged up to 500 different times. It will even work as a portable back up charger for cellphones, laptops and other smaller gadgets you carry around. It's small enough to fit right under the passenger seat for easy storage and will cost you $44.95. If that's a bit too much for you, there's a version that also plugs in through the cigarette lighter that requires a second car to charge your car for $25.95.

DIY Eco Speakers Allow You To Decorate And Customize

There are some that are willing to pay hundreds upon hundreds of dollars to get the top of the line sound and the quality looks that go along with it. Which for them is fun, but not everyone needs that kind of a set up. Instead, it's entirely possible to go extremely minimal with your speakers. You can now purchase a kit to create your very own DIY speakers. What makes them even better is that they're eco-friendly.

The kit comes with everything you'll need for the speakers and that includes things to decorate them with. They don't state what exactly the utensils are though, whether they be eco-friendly crayons or just an ordinary set of coloring pencils. Either way though, even after the speakers are finished you could still use them to decorate other items you find. The cardboard set of speakers can be found for $18 through Urban Outfitters. Which definitely isn't a bad price, especially when you get to decorate them to fit your tastes.

The Why Cry Baby Analyzer

Although a baby crying is just one of those normal parts of having a baby, sometimes it'd be nice to know why exactly they are crying. Typically it's pretty easy to figure out, give them a bottle or change their diaper and you're good. However, sometimes the crying just keeps going, so at those points it would be nice to have a translator. Oddly, Think Geek is there to rescue you with this Why Cry Baby Analyzer.

Just whip this out and it'll take the gadget about 20 seconds to figure out what's wrong with your little one. It will then show a face on the screen that you can link up with the five different possible issues. There is stressed, sleepy, annoyed, bored and finally hungry. It'd be nice if it translated things a bit more specifically, but at least it's something. It also displays the room's temperature and humidity. To keep it powered, it requires 4 AA batteries. You can purchase it for $99.99.

All About Porn: Releases, News and Stars!

Nude Teen Pic Appears In iPhone App
Another small slice of porn — softcore, of course — has come and gone in Apple's App Store for iPhones. The bad part is it was child porn: a nude photo of a 15-year-old girl.

What was allegedly a photo of an anonymous, completely naked 15-year-old girl was posted to the iPhone application BeautyMeter, then removed.

BeautyMeter is similar to websites such as Hot or Not, where users rate amateur models and everyday pics posted by almost anyone.

The discovery of the nude shot of the underage teen girl was made by iPhone app review site Krapps, while evaluating the app.

According to BeautyMeter's terms and conditions, the developers "don't review each uploaded photo exclusively but from time to time we will clean up. You can mark a photo as spam so the community is able to regulate among themselves material that they don't like." The developers may think this lets them off the hook. Lawyers and law enforcement may see it otherwise.

Apple's policy is far more clearly stated: "Apple will not distribute applications that contain inappropriate content, such as pornography."

Nonetheless, it appears that recently, more developers are sneaking things in under the radar, by submitting PG-13 apps that later add racier material once in use.

On its website, BeautyMeter posted a message Thursday: "In cause of some inappropriate content upload we cleaned up our database and hardened our review process so the release time can be higher since now. As described in our terms and conditions, NO nude content is allowed (bikini content is allowed). Apple has removed the application from the App Store in cause of that kind of content — we fully understand their act doing this step."

The BeautyMeter photo, while supposedly uploaded by a user, could pose a much bigger problem. Because the nude girl is said to be underage, the incident could well lead to severe legal action taken against the developers and perhaps even Apple, though the app was pulled.

Husband and Wife Porn Dealers Get Jail for Violent Sex Videos

A husband and wife from California will each spend a year and a day in prison for distributing violent sex videos depicting simulated rape and murder.

Robert Zicari and Janet Romano also received two years of supervised release at sentencing Wednesday. They pleaded guilty in March to conspiracy to distribute DVDs purchased by an undercover U.S. postal inspector in Pittsburgh.

Zicari and Romano owned Extreme Associates Inc. of Northridge, Calif. The company distributed videos depicting violent sexual encounters.

Defense attorneys contested the government's claim that the material is "sadistic or masochistic" for sentencing purposes but that argument was denied.

Hey, There's Porn In My Kid's DVD!

Imagine, you and your kid are watching what's supposed to be a DVD retrospective of the past school year. The video shows children sharing stories, clapping, then ... sex. And not just sex, but sex involving your kid's fifth grade teacher.

"It goes from my son, straight to her on the couch," recalled "Joe," a parent who wished to remain anonymous. "My son's reaction was, 'Dad, is that Ms. Defanti?'"

Yes, it was.

According to CBS, Sacramento teacher Crystal Defanti mistakenly added porn onto a DVD that was sent home with students of Isabelle Jackson Elementary on the last day of school. Details of the steamy scene were not released. But let's just say the six-second interlude was not suitable for children under 18. It also forced Joe to explain the finer points of copulation to his son.

"We were up till midnight doing the 'birds and the bees,'" he said.

When Defanti discovered the mistake, she was horrified and reportedly called parents, telling them to destroy the DVD. Elk Grove Unified officials at first wanted the DVD returned. Now, they're telling parents to do away with it. Legal experts say Defanti will likely keep her job because "she didn't intend for this to happen."

Japan Mobile Porn Overloads 3G Network

Mobile porn is booming in Japan, but it's also overtaxing the delivery systems of 3G Networks.

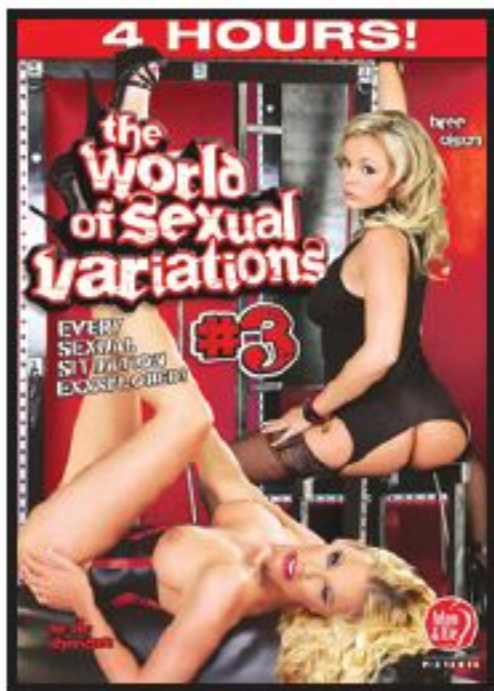

According to Bloomberg, users with "unlimited access" plans are putting the crunch on service providers such as DoCoMo and KDDI, which are considering caps, even with those devour-all-you-want deals. The bandwidth use is said to spike around midnight, most days.

Bloomberg said typical customers include Takeshi, a 32-year-old Tokyo travel agent who pays 6,300 yen ($66) monthly to download as much adult content as he wants on his mobile phone, saying it's "far handier" and admitting he rarely uses a PC now outside his office.

Some 91 million Japanese are said to access the Web via 3G networks, while the online adult industry overall is seeing massive growth — up to 1,000 new customers daily on the largest sites, some of which charge 10,000 yen ($105) per month.

The World Of Sexual Variations #3 Adam & Eve

Well, look at what we got here from Adam & Eve, the world of sexual variations #3. I guess they noticed I was looking to review something a little more risqué and naughty. This compilation has it all: anal, double penetration, interracial, Asian, 3 way, toys, gay, glory holes and much more. This is four hours (12 scenes) of hardcore sex that some of us will never get, but wished we could. If you're a big buyer of Adam & Eve films than you might want to skip this, as it's a compilation, but if you're looking for deviant sex for your money, than this what you need.

Scene 1: three way bondage sex with Bree Olson, Nina Hartley and Nicole Sheridan from The Surrender of 0.

Scene 2: Roxy and Cock Diesel show us their hardcore scene from Roxy's World.

Scene 3: Flower Tucci ass gets licked and f*cked by Alex Sanders, plus she skirts! Really energetic and hot sex. One of my faves on this release.

Scene 4: We have Paulina Patron for you barely legal and latina lovers. Man, she got a nice big juicy boot.

Scene 5: Manuel Ferrara and Ben English tag team and double penetrate Nicoletta Blue and Nicki Hunter. Another fave of mine and will be popular will guys who like blondes.

Scene 6: This time we get a young Asian Kimmy Thai from Bubblegum Cuties 4. I remember this being one of my faves in that series.

Scene 7: In this interracial scene from Flavor of Lust Prince Yashua gives trailer park queen Aline some chocolate loving. Pretty hardcore. I would probably want to hook up with Aline if I was craving some "put me in the hospital from a heart attack" type sex. Another blonde with a big butt that got me a little hot under the belt.

Scene 8: We got a three way gay scene here with three guys that might shock some dudes if they don't read the box. I'm sure the girlfriends will want to watch this for sure. That's what you get for bugging her to make out with a girl.

Scene 9: Fans of big woman will enjoy the girl/girl scene with April Flores and Bunny De La Cruz from Voluptuous Biker Babes.

Scene 10: I'm a big fan of Angelina Valentine with her tattoos and black hair. This scene from Glory Holes and Bad Girls only make me want her more. Too bad it was a glory hole scene. That's weird to me, but I still enjoyed seeing her naked.

Scene 11: From Sexy Solos we get the lovely Eva Angelina showing us how she gets off with no boy, just her toy. I'm not into solo scenes, but damn she is hot.

Scene 12: In the last scene we get a blonde slutty version of Ashley Simpson (yes I have the hots for her. Shut up!), named Brook Belle who hooks up with Barrett Blade and has some steamy sex. Too bad the chair made lots of squeaky noises and distracted me. I have to say it was pretty hot watching her ride Barrett and finger herself in the ass though.

If you like a little romance with your sex, you'll love the bonus scene from Eden with Carmen Luvana, Courtney Cummz and Jean Val Jean. Damn that Jean dude is a stud. -Gil Tha Thrill

Riley Steele: Scream Digital Playground

"Riley Steele: Scream" brings a new, erotic twist to 5 of the most famous teenage horror stories ever told, featuring blonde, beach babe Riley Steele and 2008's Best New Starlet Stoya. There are plenty of thrills and chills, including Evan Stone dressed as a horny clown. The A-list cast also stars Alexis Texas, Kelly Divine, Carmen McCarthy & Madison Ivy. Celeste weaves a tale of seduction and lust with an orgy, threesome, boy / girl debauchery, and even some cock throbbing anal action with Kelly Divine. After being fully satisfied, return for the special features, including a fantastic behind-the-scenes glimpse of the Digital Playground cast and crew in playful action!

Anal Junkies On Cock Vince Vouyer

In the sexual addiction system, some cases are considered especially ANUS! In the city of angels the women stricken with these addictions are considered JUNKIES! These are their stories: Lisa Ann takes Sean Micheals in the ass in a truly romantic interracial fashion for the very first time! Diamond Kitty aka the Pony takes 2! Lexington Steele gives Claire Dames an ass reaming for the very first time! Newbie Ashley Jane gets it in the ass in her hardcore debut! Just another walk in the park for anal queen Riley Evans! Bonus: Extra POV scenes of all the girls with Vince in full sex positions not just POV BJ's!

Girls Kissing Girls #3 Sweetheart Video

The deepest, hottest, longest lesbian kissing scenes have an added dimension of contrast in Girls Kissing Girls 3. Watch as blondes and brunettes drive each other wild, and express their passion as only true lesbians can: with soulful, real French kisses. Blonde Icon Nina Hartley comforts young dark haired Mina Meow after getting some disappointing news, while brunette Zoe Britton uses her lovely lips to win back heartbroken blonde Darryl Hannah. Long lost friends Michelle Lay and Puma Swede re connect in the most delicious of ways, while brunette goddess Nakita Denise makes a last ditch effort to change icy blonde Samantha Ryan's mind. Fans of tongue sucking, lip biting, and deep tongue kissing will consider a must have.

Now You Can Break The Masturbation Record... TENGA Comes to America!

TENGA Lip Service 8.0

Special valves inside the Lip Service cup create a virtual vacuum that delivers an amazing sucking sensation, while the cup's pinched-in shape provides the perfect amount of tightness.

TENGA Lip Service 6.0

The same great Lip Service product in a smaller package. At 6.5" tall and 2.5" in diameter, the 6.0 will discreetly fit in your shaving kit or briefcase.

TENGA Squeeze Play 8.0

With the Squeeze Play's soft tube, you have complete control over the tightness of your experience. How tightly or how lightly YOU grip the cup determines the amount of SQUEEEEEEZE in your play.

TENGA Squeeze Play 6.0

A smaller version of the Squeeze Play 8.0, at 6.25" tall and 2.5" in diameter Squeeze Play 6.0 is a great choice to take along on the road.

Remember in May when the 9th Annual Masturbate-a-thon was held in San Francisco? Well Masanobu Sato won the male competition by masturbating for 9 hours and 58 minutes. Holy Shit! How did he do it? He used Tenga masturbation products.

"My abundant imagination was a key to my triumph firstly. Secondly, I trained a lot in Japan from the time I won the 1st prize last year. I swam twice a week, and gained about 5 kilograms in muscle. That helped me a lot, too in terms of stamina. Thirdly, the variety of sensations each TENGA gave me was ideal for long masturbation. Without those variety sensations, my dick would feel the same sensation for a long time, which would paralyze my dick in the end. I use as many as 10 different TENGAs so that my dick avoids being paralyzed." - Masanobu Sato

Satistec.com, the official USA distributor of Tenga, is pleased to announce that TENGA is now available in the USA. They are available online or can be bought at Condoms To Go and Sara's Secret in the DFW area. The prices range from $13-16 and they are one use only. The cool thing about them is that if a lady spots it in your bathroom, it looks like a shampoo or body wash bottle. I tried out a few that Tim from TENGA gave me and it was quite an experience. It was a little awkward at first, then I chilled out and started to enjoy it. There are two models available in two sizes. The Lip Service gives you the experience of a blow job and even make slurping and puckering noises. S-queeze Play offers you control of the tightness. One thing I really like is they come pre-lubed and they're disposable. No mess to clean up and you can always cum inside. -Gil Tha Thrill

Carmen's 24 Hours Boutique and Video

By: Ms. Misha Moré

Carmen Barone continues to educate the public on new sexual options for adults on a large selection of merchandise available for purchase inside her boutique. Carmen has added her feminine touch and given an extra spice to people's love life.

The love boutiques are fully equipped with a wide variety of products for all types of adults' likes and specific necessities. Some of the products include engaging aphrodisiacs perfumes, stimulating massage oils, scented candles, apparel, costumes and a large array of adult toys and DVDs.

And her latest inspiring alternative in the art of seduction is a new adventure to have fun and fitness with Carmen's Pole Dance Place in Carmen's Love Boutique.

There will be four classes once per week in the pole dance studio and this is the first level for beginners only. In time, additional levels of pole classes will be offered as students progressed through their course of instruction. The classes will first be held at 8200 SW Frwy Exit Beechnut/Gessner, Houston and as more students enroll, more classes will be expanded to the other four locations.

To reserve your class, register at any of the five locations, or call: (713) 776-2930 or go to www.carmensboutique.com for MORE information.

SEX IN THE NEWZ

Police: Conn. Teens Mishear Sex Screams, Beat Man

A group of teenagers misunderstood a woman's screams during sex and, thinking they were stopping an assault, beat a 25-year-old man in her bedroom, police said.

A 16-year-old girl who lives in the same Torrington home as the 34-year-old woman overheard her and the man on June 6 and rounded up four friends to stop what they thought was an attack, police Lt. Bruce Whiteley said Thursday.

One of the five teens beat the man with a bat and others punched him, police said. The man was treated at a hospital for injuries that were not life-threatening, and was released that night.

"Apparently he didn't have time to explain himself," Whiteley said.

The girl, two 17-year-old boys and Dilyen Langdeau, 19, of Torrington, were arrested Tuesday night and arraigned in Bantam Superior Court on Wednesday. Langdeau was charged with assault and conspiracy; the teens face similar counts. The fifth teenager was not charged.

Daily Sex Makes For Healthier Sperm

Having sex every day improves the quality of men's sperm and is recommended for couples trying to conceive, according to new research.

Until now doctors have debated whether or not men should refrain from sex for a few days before attempting to conceive with their partner to improve the chance of pregnancy.

But a new study by Dr David Greening of Sydney IVF, an Australian center for infertility and in vitro fertilization (IVF) treatment, suggests abstinence is not the right approach.

He studied 118 men with above-average sperm DNA damage and found the quality of their sperm increased significantly after they were told to ejaculate daily for seven days.

On average, their DNA fragmentation index -- a measure of sperm damage -- fell to 26 percent from 34 percent, Greening told the European Society of Human Reproduction and Embryology in Amsterdam Tuesday.

Frequent sex does decrease semen volume but for most men this is not a problem.

Greening said it was likely frequent ejaculation improved the quality of sperm by reducing the length of time they were exposed to potentially damaging molecules called reactive oxygen species in the testicular ducts.

The AANR World Record Skinny-Dip

Cool down this summer while setting a hot new record at The AANR World Record Skinny-Dip across North America. The Guinness World Records™ organization has just created a new category for the largest number of people simultaneously skinny-dipping, and the American Association for Nude Recreation (AANR) is the contract association for this record-setting event.

Skinny-dipping, a wholesome tradition as old as mankind and frequently honored in art and movies, celebrates the natural joy of plunging into water without hindrance of clothing. AANR plans to coordinate skinny-dipping events at participating clubs and legally-sanctioned nude beaches throughout North America on Saturday, July 11, 2009 at 3:00 pm Eastern Nudist Time, as an exciting finale to Nude Recreation Week (July 5-11, 2009).

In conformance with stated rules, all participants to be counted must be completely nude during the Skinny-Dip. First-time skinny-dippers will be welcome, and shyness can be accommodated. More info at <http://www.aanr.com/skinny-dip.html>.

Sex Feels The Credit Squeeze In Nevada

Nevada is famous for its licensed brothels, which originally catered for miners and cowboys working in the sun-scorched desert. Now a lure for lascivious tourists, they have suffered a plunge in earnings as men become parsimonious about their spending on sex.

In good years, Nevada's 25 or so bordellos pulled in as much as $50-million in revenue. But George Flint, director of the Nevada Brothel Owners' Association, says takings at the state's worst-hit establishments have slumped by 60% to 70%, and even the most robust have suffered to the tune of at least 20%.

The downturn, says Flint, has drawn more women into both legal and illegal prostitution, but customers are scarce and prices, typically $75 to $250 for a quick "date", are under pressure: "More women are reaching out to work in the industry. The biggest visible effect is that a lot of women are working for about half what they were a few years ago."

Nevada has tolerated brothels since the 19th century and the Silver State is alone in the US in permitting the licensing and regulation of "ranches" where women offer sex for money. With names such as Chicken Ranch, Moonlight Bunny and Cherry Patch, the bordellos are a subject of bitter contention. Critics argue that they legitimise exploitation and abuse, providing dubious working conditions and spawning a vast knock-on industry of illegal street prostitution.

The recession has come at a tricky time. Bordellos were already facing competition from a whole new digital avenue as free listings websites such as Craigslist made sex available at the touch of a mouse.

Brothels are not permitted in the county around Las Vegas, which is by far Nevada's biggest city, but an hour's drive into the desert is sufficient to cross the county line. At establishments within 90 minutes' drive of so-called Sin City, as many as 70% of customers are tourists, of whom about a quarter tend to be foreign. But Vegas is suffering -- visitor numbers have fallen as penny-pinching gamblers stay away.

News, Rumors and Gossip

Being Gay No Longer Illegal In India
In a landmark judgment, the Delhi High Court of India has declared intercourse between two consenting members of the same sex legal, the BBC reported.

The law that banned gay sex in India, a holdover from British colonial rule, is known as Section 377 of the Indian penal code.

The verdict comes on the heels of Gay Pride Month where gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender Indians marched for greater rights in several large cities. As they marched down main streets, the activists held rainbow flags and chanted "Down with 377." The visibility was remarkable considering gay activists held their first parade just last year.

The court agreed with petitioners and declared section 377 unconstitutional. Its decision will hold until lawmakers choose to amend the law, a process already under advisement by the Parliament.

Section 377 prescribed a harsh sentence of 10 years to life in prison – longer than most rape or murder sentences – for gays and lesbians.

The United Nations had urged the high court to reverse the law, arguing such laws hinder HIV/AIDS prevention efforts aimed at the gay community.

While being gay remains taboo in India, acceptance is slowly increasing, especially in its big cities.

Pentagon Looking To Soften Military Gay Ban

Defense Secretary Robert Gates said Tuesday the Pentagon is looking into ways to make its ban on open gay service "more humane."

Speaking aboard a military plane on its way to Germany Tuesday, Gates told reporters "one of the things we're looking at is, is there flexibility in how we apply this law."

The military gay ban, known as "don't ask, don't tell," prescribes discharge as the remedy for service members who do not remain closeted or celibate. But Gates suggested he disagreed with discharges in cases where service members were maliciously outed.

Gates questioned the need to take action against service members when they've been outed out of vengeance or after being jilted.

In April, Gates said altering the law was not under consideration. Speaking on Fox News Sunday, Gates told Chris Wallace: "I think the president and I feel like we've got a lot on our plates right now and let's push that one down the road a little bit."

The Obama administration is facing increasingly louder demands from gay groups to end the 16-year-old law that candidate Obama promised to repeal. According to the Servicemembers Legal Defense Network, a group that lobbies for repeal of the law, 275 service members have been discharged under Obama's watch.

Rep. Murphy Takes On Military Gay Ban
Congressman Patrick Murphy will lead the fight to repeal "don't ask, don't tell," the law that forbids open gay service, when Congress returns to work this week.

Murphy will take over as lead sponsor of the House bill that repeals the military gay ban that prescribes discharge for gay and lesbian service members who do not remain closeted or celibate.

The bill was introduced by California Representative Ellen Tauscher in March before she was tapped by President Obama for a top post in the State Department.

In an exclusive interview with Stars and Stripes, Murphy said he wants to repeal "don't ask, don't tell" as soon as possible, with or without the help of the president.

"I don't work for the president," Murphy said. "We don't need to wait."

Murphy, a Democrat from Pennsylvania who served in Iraq, is backing those words with the strongest push for repeal yet, which includes a website on the issue and face-to-face meetings with House members.

Axed From Military, Gay Veteran Campaigns For Congress

There is a bittersweet irony to Anthony Woods' candidacy. The twenty-eight-year old is vying for the seat vacated by Congresswoman Ellen O. Tauscher. Tauscher is behind the legislation that would end the military's ban on open gay service, the policy that ended Woods' military career.

Woods, an openly gay Iraq war veteran, is running to fill California's 10th Congressional District seat vacated after Tauscher was tapped by President Obama to a top post in the State Department in March.

Woods, who was awarded the Bronze Star for two tours of duty in Iraq and is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, outed himself to his military superiors in 2008. They quickly fired him under "don't ask, don't tell," the policy that prescribes discharge for gay and lesbian service members who do not remain closeted or celibate. He was given an honorable discharge and asked to return the Army's $35,000 educational investment.

"I knew getting into it that if I took a stand, it would be a costly decision and it certainly has become one," Woods said in an interview with The Daily Beast. "But people have to take a stand for what's right. There's a reason this policy is on the front burner now. ... We're a country fighting two wars, having trouble recruiting, yet we want to turn away some of our most talented, most well-trained soldiers?"

If elected, Woods would join three openly gay Washington politicians – Tammy Baldwin of Wisconsin, Jared Polis of Colorado and Barney Frank of Massachusetts – but would have the distinction of being the first openly gay African American to serve in Congress.
